DEDICATION.

BY EDWIN RO SITER JOHNSON.

If that indeed were fact which seems
A pleasant universal fiction,
That's daily born of youthful dreams,
Nor dies of daily contradiction—

That every mortal has a mate,
And counterparts so blindly groping,
To find, perchance, through fogs or fate,
The end of all their weary hoping—

I'd say: Whatever I have done
To manhood's earnest work befitting,
Be consecrate to her alone
Who waits for me, though all unwitting;

Who puts the signs of pain away,
Lest grief too soon her cheek should furrow;
Who beats temptation back to day,
That I may see some glad to-morrow;

Who dare not pluck a flower that grows
Beyond the path God spreads before her,
Nor ever think of passing those
That bloom beside it to adore her;

Who strives to add a cubit yet
By faith unto her moral stature—
Dear soul!—lest I should feel regret,
At finding less than mine her nature;

Whose hands train many a trailing vine
That mine had rudely left to perish,
And all its tendrils deftly twine
In folds that failing years shall cherish;

Whose steps will mark life' tune always,
Though mine have stumbled, failed and blundered;
Whose spirit walks with mine to day,
However far our feet are sundered.

CHAPTER XII.

Our March to Gettysburg—The second Day's Fight—The third Day's Fight—The Fourth of July—Retreat of the Enemy—Pursuit to Fairfield.

But with the meridian sun came the great array that, for Lee and Davis, was the last desperate resort of a cause whose supreme effort for success was trembling on the verge of failure, and more than one hundred guns, with their terrific chorus of hostile thunders, sent their solid defiance to our waiting lines. It was the singular Lee's last grand effort, and the battle raged with unexampled fury along the whole line. Charge after charge was repulsed and beaten back.—More than one hundred cannon shook the hills with their hostile thunders. At our centre, caisson after caisson was exploded, and the stream of wounded men moving painfully and eagerly to the hospitals in rear, was momentarily growing. All were ready and eager, and we were hurried to the crossing north of the Round Top, to aid our comrades there, who were so heavily pressed. Shells and shot were dancing around and amongst us, and everywhere the dead and dying and wounded afforded evidence of the severity of the fight. But our lines never wavered; not one inch of ground was given to the enemy on this great third day of Gettysburg. Again and again the rebel leader sent forward his columns and opened his batteries upon the hills we held, but still, though he sacrificed his gallant, wronged, deceived and outraged soldiers by hecatombs in this last desperate struggle to save his waning cause, he failed, utterly, hopelessly, and at terrible cost.

When the sun sank in the west, we knew that our lines were unbroken—that our prisoners were numbered by thousands—that Barksdale was dead, and Longstreet's grand division was decimated and destroyed. From Gen. Meade we had congratulations and thanks; from our lines cheers and enthusiasm unexampled before, for we felt that we had won the fight when the odds were all against us, and when the valleys and towns of our own Pennsylvania was the prize to be snatched from the devastation of war. As we received our prizes in cannon and colors, trophies and long lines of prisoners, cheers rent the air, as a tired and bleeding and worn out army, in the hour of success, full and reassured, now lay down on this historic field to sleep. And the night was silent, save the cries of wounded men left, in agony, between the lines, and now and then a shot from some drowsy or nervous skirmisher, who imagined the advance of an enemy.

The morning of the 4th day of July, 1863, a day we had rendered sacred anew in the annals of our history, and which we had baptised in the blood of Liberty, as it had aforetime been dedicated to Freedom, by the grandest exhibition of moral courage, and political wisdom, ever shown by men, found us with all quiet along the lines. We held the historic field of Gettysburg. The old town was ours. The dead were strewn upon the plains and hills, like the ungathered harvest sheaves. The wounded were gathered together in barns, tents and groves. The rebel and the patriot in the same shelter, suffering the same agonies.

The stragglers of the march and fight, collected together by Provost Guards, were set to burying the dead of the enemy, and as they dragged the bodies of the hapless rebels to their shallow, stony graves, made for them up among the rocks, it seemed the roughest sort of funeral with which earthly carouses could end. Our regiment was moved up on Round Top mountain, among the rocks, to relieve the Penn's Reserves, and skirmishers, under the lead of Captain Wakefield, were sent forward to the edge of the woods. The enemy did not show any signs of activity, but indications of their retreat were plenty.

The cloudy morning ended in a day of heavy and continuous rain, and the two armies seemed quiet as the death that reigned amongst those hills, while the weeping clouds washed off the blood that treason had shed on Pennsylvania's soil in defence of Slavery and an Anarchy in a civil Government, that must have sent America back to barbarism, if its hopes had not been ended by our great victory at Gettysburg.

We patiently took the rain, perched up among the rocks, for it was evident that we had won, and the end of the war seemed nearer. It was the beginning of the end.

No fighting occurred on the Fourth.—We had little to eat—less to do. We awaited news with patience, though none came, and slept on our rugged beds, and in our wet blankets, and, in many cases, with our stomachs not over well supplied, with satisfaction and comfort, for we felt good, notwithstanding.

On the morning of July 5, we found the skirmishers of the enemy gone, and we moved off, at once, in pursuit, our brigade taking the lead. As we passed over the ground held by the rebels, the evidences of the severity of our fire were multiplied. The trees and fences, fields, houses and orchards bore testimony to the power of the lead and iron hail with which we drove back the invaders of the Keystone. Great barns and farm houses, and scores of tents, full of their wounded, in every form of mutilation, succeeded, while the broken fences, and fields streaked with the tracks of moving trains and troops, gave us the knowledge of the course of their march. They had set fire to many of the fences along the road, and as we neared the mountain, we saw that their rearguard was not far in advance. We began to pick up a great many straggling soldiers from their army. Some, because, being unwilling to serve them, they found this an opportunity to get away from the hated life, if even it were to a prison; some because they were exhausted, and could not help it, and many who had wandered off to houses, seeking food or plunder. Along the road the people met our advancing skirmishers with the most extravagant manifestations of joy, and at Fairfield, near the Gap of the mountain, we overtook the rebels, and opened fire upon them with our batteries, our skirmishers pushing out to capture those who lagged.

JUSTICE Dowling's greatest bother in court is with women. Sometimes however, he manages to get even with her. Last term one of those strongly developed females who are guilty of legal irregularities was brought before him for some ordinary offense. A decent regard for accuracy compels us to state that she was not lovely of feature.

"What are you here for?" asked the Judge.

"My beauty, I reckon."

"Your what?"

"My beauty."

"Are you certain of that?"

"Bedad there's no mistake."

"Then I discharge you; you're not guilty."

The woman from "the first gem of say" emerged from the presence.

A YOUNG convert in the country recently got up and was making confessions somewhat after this sort, viz: "I have been very wicked. Indeed I have; I have cheated many persons, very mean, but I will restore fourfold," when he was interrupted by an old lady, thus:—"Well, I should think, before you confess much, you had better marry Nancy Stebbins, as you agreed to."

A LADY named White, living in Maury county, Tenn., about three miles from Spring Hill, gave birth, recently, to four male children, weighing, in the aggregate, twenty-three pounds. They are all well formed and healthy. The mother is said to be a very fine woman, has been married about three years, and is but twenty-two years of age.

"Close up, ladies, if you please," said a horse car conductor to six feminines who had spread themselves over the extent of the seats. "I shall do nothing of the kind," exclaimed one of the indignant fair. "Clothes up, indeed, indeed, and in a street car, too; you ought to be ashamed of yourself, young man." The conductor subsided.

Alexander the Great, seeing Diogenes looking attentively at a parcel of human bones, asked the philosopher what he was looking for.

"That which I cannot find," was the reply; "the difference between your father's and those of his slaves."

A printer, meddling with the verdict of a coroner's jury, struck out a comma after the word "apoplexy, making it read thus:

"Deceased came to his death by excessive drinking, producing apoplexy in the minds of the jury."

Many a man's word is as good as his bond, but it should be remembered that sometimes both are worthless.

Two local reporters on the Montgomery (Ala) Mail recently fought a duel because they differed as to the color of an actresses eyes.

Indian Fight at Muscleshell--A Graphic, Topographic and Autographic Account.

THE PREMONITION.

EDITOR POST:—I arrived here, per steamer Deer Lodge, this evening, at 7 o'clock, and to Col. Denning, Capt. Ray Andrews, Maj. Brewer, and other gentlemen residing at Muscleshell, I am indebted for the following news which, perhaps, has not yet reached you. On the 20th of March a party of men from Thompson's Gulch and Diamond City arrived here from Black Butte, where they had been poisoning wolves and hunting, and had been surprised, attacked and driven in by a large party of Crows, they having been compelled to fight almost incessantly, for three days, and finally escaped in the darkness of night, after losing several valuable horses and their stock of furs. They arrived at this place on foot, worn out, and completely destitute, and were kindly cared for by the residents. Although their misfortunes, and most fortunate escape should have served as a sufficient warning to Muscleshell, it was little heeded, for, having long enjoyed a season of peace, every one proceeded, as usual, with their industrial pursuits.

THE ATTACK ON MUSCLESHELL—PERSONAL EXPLOITS.

Smith and Andrews were getting out timber from up the Muscleshell, with four choppers and three men hauling, Capt. Andrews and Maj. Brewer driving two of the teams. A white woman, Jenny Mortimer, who formerly kept the Resolute Hall, in Helena, and two squaws had gone to carry dinner to the men—Brewer had unloaded, and was about five hundred yards on his return from town. Andrews was about half a mile from the stockade, coming in, and the women were between the two. Suddenly and unexpectedly the unearthly war-whoop broke upon the stillness, and sixty naked, painted, screeching red demons came charging down the hill, and, in a moment, were close upon their victims. Maj. Brewer jumped from his wagon, and, firing as he went, retreated through a perfect storm of arrows and bullets, unhurt, to the stockade. The terrified females fled, screaming, towards the Fort, but were soon overtaken by the Indians, who shot one of the squaws through the thigh, inflicting a terrible wound. The white woman, with genuine heroism, stopped to assist her dusky companion, and had succeeded in raising her to her feet, when she, too, received a bullet through the neck from an Indian rifle, which brought her to the ground. The savages, with a demoniac yell, rushed upon her, and in a moment, her scalp, reeking with blood, was in the air. Capt. Andrews, being farther out than the others, and having the whole party of Indians between him and the town, advanced cautiously, firing at intervals, and at long range, at the Indians in pursuit of the women. After firing a half dozen shots, he found that he was without caps, having lost his cap-box in the excitement. Upon turning to look for it, he discovered another party of Indians. Then came a series of tall running, dodging and crouching behind logs and trees on the part of Andrews, for it was in reality a game of life and death, with the odds largely in favor of the Indians. Capt. Andrews, at one time his scalp seemed so loose on his cranium that he doubts if it would have withstood a moderate gust of wind. At this juncture Andrews left the main trail and made for the bank of the Muscleshell, where were a few large cottonwood trees, for protection, amid a flight of arrows and bullets. His clothes were frequently pierced, and the rim of his hat cut into ribbons. He, with much difficulty, kept his course; frequently turning and leveling his now worthless gun at his enemies, causing them to drop into the sage brush to avoid his (supposed) fatal shots, thereby giving him a better opportunity to make good his retreat. At last the Indians had exhausted their ammunition, and Andrew's oft-repeated ruse had become old with his pursuers who, perceiving his helpless condition, now rushed upon him with upraised war clubs. Clubbing his empty rifle, he met them like a veteran and dealt the foremost Indian a blow on the head that placed him hors du combat, and as the others were closing in upon him, a small party, headed by Col. Denning, rushed to his rescue. Capt. says, in a moment more, he should have been compelled to "pass in his checks." The Indians soon beat a hasty retreat from the field. On finding the woman, a horrible spectacle was presented. Lying unconscious upon the ground, scalped and bruised and bleeding from the murderous war clubs, she was a sight calculated to appal the stoutest heart of that brave little party. She was immediately carried to the stockade, and everything that could be done, was accomplished for her relief. Strange to say, when we saw her this evening, she had almost entirely recovered, and related, with great coolness, her terrible adventure. Capt. Andrews, who is the only one here versed in Surgery, deserves much credit for the care of the wounded, who are now out of danger. Some are of the opinion that the Indians belonged to the Santee Sioux, but a majority believe they were River Crows. So endeth the first chapter of the Indian horrors. There are others to be told, which speak volumes for the courage and bravery of the inhabitants of this little stockade, for the account of which, I am indebted to the gentlemen above mentioned.

THE ATTACK ON THE STOCKADE.

On the 8th day of the present month, Muscleshell was again attacked by a party of one hundred and fifty Santee Sioux, armed with guns and revolvers, on foot. The first intimation had of their presence was the firing upon and driving in of a small party who were out bringing in fire wood. On the first alarm, being given, all sprang for their arms, and leaving ten men inside the stockade to cover a retreat, if necessary, the remainder of the party, about sixty in number sallied forth, determined to give the Indians battle on the open ground after their own fashion. This was at 7 o'clock in the morning, and although the settlers were outnumbered more than two to one, the Indians well armed, nothing daunted they determined to wipe the red devils out or leave their scalps to adorn the wakiups of the "noble" red men.

THE FIELD FIGHT.

Hostilities first commenced about 200 yards back of the stockade, and from thence to the Muscleshell. A small party led on by a German named Jacob Leader, made a charge upon a "coolie" occupied by about sixty warriors under command of a half-breed Sioux. Before they had proceeded far, however, the man Leader received a bullet in the head which killed him instantly, and, another man of the party, Greenwood by name, was shot through the shoulders, a terrible wound, which brought him to the ground. Learning a lesson from this, to proceed more cautiously against their foes, parties were immediately dispatched to flank the "coolie," which was accomplished. Then from all sides the settlers poured in their leaden hail with fearful accuracy and telling effect, killing and wounding the copper colored devils by the dozen, and soon causing those who could, to scatter precipitately and in the utmost confusion into the willows some jumping into the stream (Muscleshell) and endeavoring to escape to the other side. The settlers, meanwhile, giving them their compliments with their Henry and Spencer rifles, shooting them in the water and while they were creeping through the willows. Thus, without intermission, the firing was kept up until after one o'clock P. M. By this time the Indians that remained unhurt gave up the fight

"Nigger" Ball---What Next?

Truly the world moves. Even the Democracy are progressing. The leaders, in town, have an eye to business. They have sense enough to see that the negro is the coming man—that he will soon be armed, as he should be, with the right of the elective franchise. The Fifteenth Amendment, they take it, is a fixed fact, and that before another year rolls around, the once down-trodden and oppressed negro will be an American citizen, in the fullest sense of the word, armed, equiped and strengthened by the power of the ballot. The leaders of the Democracy see this, and are preparing to "accept the situation." These men, whether with the consent of the Watchman deponent saith not, really did, on Wednesday or Thursday evening of last week, throw open wide the doors of their Democratic club room, for the free use and behoof of their colored brethern, (the "niggers," as GRAY would spell it) who entered the same with music and song, and danced all night till clear daylight, and left the place in the morning. The place where Democrats do congregate to plot their treason, and where, last fall, they made speeches against the "nigger," and sung psalms in honor of SEYMOUR and BLAIR. Now, this same hall, given up by the consent of the Democratic leaders, the Court House Clique, to the "nigger"-the "nigger" for a ball-room.

Oh, all ye Gods at once! Whither are ye Democracy drifting? How tame and submissive the Penns Valley Democracy must be to remain quiescent while such scenes are being transacted by their leaders in Bellefonte; but poor Penns Valley Democrats, they have been so long lashed into ranks by the crack of their leaders whip, that they have lost their manly independence—their right to think for themselves.—We think the great mistake was on the part of the "niggers." Think of your conduct—your great condescension! When all eyes are fixed, rivited upon you—watching, scanning your every action, why! oh, why, would you so far forget yourselves, your pride, your dignity, your noble war record, your manhood, as to enter a Democratic club-room, even at the earnest solicitation of the "clique." Dancing is poor amusement at best; but the idea of negroes dancing all night in a Democratic club-room, is not only disgraceful, but a great condescension on the part of the negro.

Do ye not know, ye colored American citizens, that it was not through any love or respect they have for you, that they gave you the use of the club room? It is because they look upon the adoption of the 15th Amendment as a fixed fact. It is because you will soon be voters, and when that auspicious day does come, you will find these Democratic leaders down at your feet, begging, imploring, beseeching you; aye eating dirt, for your votes. In that day "niggers," in the estimation of the Watchman and the Court House Clique, will be just as respectable as an Irishman, a Penns Valley Democrat, or "any other man.

Therefore, when that auspicious time arrives you will hear every Democratic Stump orator appealing to the negro, as they are now doing in the District of Columbia, Virginia, Tennessee, Mississippi, and Texas, imploring them to vote the Democratic ticket. You will read in the Democratic Watchman, and listen to arguments as they fall from the lips of JNO. H. ORVIS and other great and small Democratic lights, going to prove that the Democratic party have always been the true friend of the negro—the poor and oppressed every where.

These remarkably consistent, inconsistent leaders will then proclaim that the Democratic party as a party have always opposed the perpetuation of Slavery--that they have always opposed the Fugitive Slave Law, and finally secured its repeal—that they have always treated colored men with so much kindness and humanity and justice, and never believed they had no rights that white men are bound to respect.

It will really be amusing to hear ORVIS and MEEK and all that ilk, laboring to convince their colored brethren who dance in their club room, that they have always cheerfully aided fugitive slaves to escape—that they approved the proclamation of emancipation, and finally abolished slavery;—that they secured for colored men the right to vote and hold office and we almost imagine we can see the eloquent ORVIS in one of his most powerful appeals summing up the whole matter and declaring, to his colored brethren the invaluable services to them, by the Democratic party, and the base ingratitude of which they must be guilty, if they refuse to vote the Democratic ticket. Negroes of Bellefonte and Pennsylvania do not be bamboozled by these fellows—do not let them pull the wool of your eyes. Refuse to dance in their club room—keep your eyes wide open—stand fast and see the glory of the Lord.

A Word to Irishmen.

We select the following extracts from a late issue of the United Irishman, a paper of talent and great influence, published in Buffalo, N. Y., and circulating in the Northern, Northeastern, and Western States, and also in Canada. It is a true exponent of the feeling and opinions of the Irish citizens in regard to the welfare of their native land and the land of their adoption:

Let us, then, at once, state the plain truth, that the Democratic party, as at present managed and led, is pro-English intensely, or, at least, is rapidly becoming such. Not a Democratic organ can we pick up without finding evidence to that effect. From the day that the Senate rejected the Clarendon-Johnson treaty, the entire press of that party have been denouncing all who displayed the least spirit of hostility to England, and all their efforts are devoted to the denunciation of any proposition looking toward a bold and resolute policy in the dealing with the British Government.

* * * * * *

Sumner, since he proclaimed the crimes of England, has been argued against day by day, and Chandler, for having proposed speedy satisfaction or fight, has been blackguarded and ridiculed without mercy or cessation.

Referring to its former attachment of its countrymen to the Democratic party, the Irishman continues:

The ties that formerly bound them, as with bands of steel, to the Democracy have been greatly loosened; it would only require a little longer continuance in a pro-English policy on its part to induce them to throw them off altogether, and forever.

The Irish people of the United States are fast awakening to the fact that their best interests dictate their adhesion to the great party of liberty and progress in the United States.—Particularly since 1861 have the scales which dimmed their vision been falling from their eyes. With amazement, all the more intense from their long adherence to and confidence in the friendship of the Democracy, our Irish fellow-citizens saw the coalition of England and the Copperheads of America to compass the downfall of the Government of their adopted country. So shocking was this base conspiracy, and so clearly was the true character of their party allies in the United States laid bare, that brave and loyal Irishmen everywhere revolted at the spectacle, and, throwing their swords into the contest on the side of the Union, fought with their natural heroism, and either emerged from the struggle with resplendent honor or found glorious deaths on the field of battle. The brave words of Archbishop HUGHES during the war, coming as they did from such a high ecclesiastical source, did much to break the domination of the Democracy over the Irishmen of this country, and render them nobly loyal instead of recreant to the cause of the Union.

For years Ireland has been pouring her living weight of woe into all parts of America. Ground down beneath the heel of British tyranny, they seek, and not in vain, in the United States immunities from the persecutions and oppressions of England, and hope to find in our great Republic demonstrations of sympathy for their wrongs.—They find the first under a Government conducted on the true principles of justice and liberty; the second they receive, not from the allies of England in America, but from their sincere friends of the great Republican party. Proofs are not wanting to show the real hostility of the Democracy to the best and dearest interests of the Irishmen. To-day the dissentient voices of those opposed to the just and equitable demands made by Senator SUMNER in his late speech are those of so-called Democrats, who applaud every utterance of the British press denunciatory of the views expressed by Mr SUMNER, which are endorsed by our loyal countrymen everywhere. "Call you this backing of your friends?" Of those Irishmen who yet retain their connection with the Democracy, we ask: In case of a war between the U. States—perhaps improbable, but certainly not impossible—will you not be forced by your own solemn convictions of duty, by the love you bear not only your native but your adopted country, to sever your present degrading alliance with Ireland's foes, the mockers of her miseries, in America, otherwise your pseudo friends, the Democrats? The question needs no answer. Let this question of political preference receive your serious consideration, and you will find that not only your moral sense but your material interests demand your identification with the great Republican party.

IN an article on the "Prospects in the State," the Scranton Republican says that it dose not think Gover. or Geary's nomination a foregone conclusion, but admits that he has a long lead of any competitor. It admits Governor Geary's administration has been a conscientious, safe and creditable one, and says;

But we press Mr. Ketcham as a man of better abilities of equal honesty, and whose services to the Republican party of Pennsylvania have been infinitely greater than General Geary has ever had the opportunity to render. If the State Convention could appreciate in advance the pleasure its members would feel at the way Ketcham would cut into the big Democratic majorities in the anthracite mining district they could not be induced to throw him over. It is useless to again go over the grounds, so often repeated of the special claims on the Republicans of the minority counties. Our friends in the other parts of the State will never adequately appreciate our urgency on this point until they have the misfortune to be brought under the harrow of an overwhelming Democratic majority themselves—a misfortune, however, which not even our strenuous desire to open their eyes can induce us to wish them.

Letter From Montana.

EDS. REPUBLICAN,—There has been a lapse of one month since I last wrote you, and in that time I have been enabled to gather a few items which may interest your readers, and certainly are epochs in the history of our Territory. Our fair city of Helena has just been visited by the most destructive fire yet chronicled for 1869. Although but three hours passed before its ragings were checked, in that space of time over three hundred buildings were burned. The loss, so far summed up, amounts to over $900,000; and hardly has the smoke died away from the smouldering ruins, before a new Helena, in blocks of brick and granite, has sprung up, Phœnix-like, in the ashes of the old one, attesting that alike in wealth and strength of energy, she cannot be outclassed in America.

Of the lay of the land, except in bordering Territories, there is no similarity of Montana with any other portion of the globe; the Rocky Mountains travel her entire length and breadth; without any regularity of line, but in every direction, some joining midways against the sides of others, and though numerous, are of such magnitude that we can boast of valleys fine as any in Pennsylvania. With exception of a few cotton-wood and willow trees on the river banks, the low-lands are devoid of trees and shrubbery, and this barrenness extends half-way up the mountain sides.

The farmer (called "ranchmen" here) has much to contend with, blighting frosts visit them many times during the summer, and for the past four years great swarms of army grasshoppers, that shadowed the sun, swept over the "ranches," giving broad fields and even the wild-grass prairies a dead and sodden appearance. While your independent farmer reader can complacently sit in their doors and watch the crop-refreshing rain, here the ranchmen are plodding "knee-up" in mud to their ditches and irrigate their land. Here, too, is a lesson for your farmers to learn, that often during great drouths they make no use of the fine streams that run by them, but allow their corn and wheat to want for water and warp to ruin. With all these drawbacks, still our ranchmen are very successful, and though true, so fabulous are the amount cereals and vegetables produced, that I will not risk tasking the credulity of your readers by reciting them.

But the gold and silver mines are the great lode-stars of attraction here, and there is not a single man of the many thousands who have come to Montana, but was impulsed by the greed for gold, and though the gulches and hills are rich beyond dispute, not one in a thousand betters his fortune, for gold lies where it wisteth, and the miner has little certainty, but much toil in finding it. The amount, up to close of last year, is set down by careful statician at 86½ millions as the products of the placer diggings; add to this fifteen millions from the quartz mines, and we have a total yield of over one hundred millions from Montana for the last seven years, to a population at no time exceeding sixty thousand men.

The society of Montana (to-day at its best) is made up of a queer mixture of characters—good, bad and villanious—and of human beings of almost every color, nationality and clime. Here no reckonings are kept of the Sabbath days, unless that they are made most conspicuous of the seven, by scenes of rioting. We have many "institutions" unknown in your civilized East, only two of which we will attempt a description—the "Hurdy-Gurdy Hall" and Beer Saloon. The Hurday Hall—a large, brilliant lighted room, sweetly aramotized with tabacco smoke and cheap provisions, liquors, one half crowded almost to suffocation with drinking and drunken men; the other half, a rail enclosure, inside of which are eight or ten "Hurdie Gurdies," mostly of Teutonic blood, dressed in gorgeous and rich, but grotesque attire, and we may add, the ugliest, brazon-faced wantons to be found anywhere. Standing beside them, an equal number of men, their partners for the dance, who have braced their courage against the chidings of shame by repeated draughts of rum; the violins strike up, the dance begins, and so continues the scene we have painted you, all night long, until day dawns again. In the Beer Saloon are to be found the same noisy crowds, drinking, card playing and listening to the most obscene of jokes and songs from low male and female comedians, on a stage at one end of the saloon, while at the other end are Faro tables surrounded by men gambling away their gold, dug with aching backs and blistered hands, and we do not exaggerate when we say that one fourth of these men, while they are drinking, gambling and cajoling with wantons, have, far away in their old homes, hoping, trusting, patient wives and scan-clad little ones looking to them for a better life. But in justice to Montana we must say that, both in morality and law-abiding, she has made wondrous strides within the past four years; and for the sake of her beautiful landscapes, fine climate and boundless wealth we, hope for her far greater advance in civilization, with churches in every valley, mining town and city, the chime of whose sweet tongued meeting bells will drive away her vice and drown these hell-wrought revelries.

From daily seeing the Indian in his listless, lazy and filthy mode of life, and knowing his great treachery, we almost, to a man, have come to regard him as possessing but little more than animal instinct, and as the most arrant coward of anything in human shape; but our theory and even prejudices have been considerably staggered by a little episode of two weeks ago. Two young braves, one belonging the Grosventres and the other to the Assiniboine tribe, were enamored of a young Assiniboine Squaw, and with the chivalry of "ye Knight of ye olden time," appealed to the abitrament of the arms of war. The scene was a wild romantic one, in a deep and narrow valley, hemmed in by lofty mountains, on opposite mossy banks of a clear noisy brook, stood the warriors, one armed with a rifle, the other with a revolver. To the right of them, squatted in grim silence, the Assiniboine tribe, on the left the herald for the strife, and aloof from all, stood the young squaw, with, perhaps, no less of grace and pride than Gyneth, Bride of Thiermain—

"As with truncheon raised she sat,
The arbitress of mortal fate," as the bloody tourney for her hand, of the Knights of the Round Table at Whitesuntide. (To Eds. REPUBLICAN—see Scott's Poems). The signal is given—two deadly shots with report as one—and the warriors fall, one pierced through the brain and the other through the heart. The relatives of the Assiniboine and the young squaw commence their wierd-like death chant for a safe journey of the two for the "Spirit Land," while the rest of the tribe file off insolemn majesty, their stolid faces giving no token of their feelings of the combat.

On the 8th inst., a very brisk little engagement took place between a band of Indians belonging to the Santee tribe of Sioux, and a settlement of white hunters and trappers on the Muscleshell River. * * * *

[For full account of which, see first page of this issue.—EDS.]

The writer, however, failed to mention the packing of several barrels, intended as a donation for a right-royal canabalistic barbecue to our coming Quaker Indian Commissioners. The Indians made the attack on the settlement intending a general massacree, and all rejoice at their defeat; and tho' the mutilation of the dead may look savage-like to you, yet as a reason to justify the act, is the belief among the Indians, that if those slain are scalped and otherwise disfigured it debars their entrance to the "Happy Hunting Grounds." Our Washington Letter.

WASHINGTON, D. C.
June 11, 1869.

DEAR REPUBLICAN.—Our city was greatly excited yesterday morning, by the rumor of a terrible accident which was said to have befallen the "through New York train" which left Washington on Wednesday evening at 9 o'cl'k, P. M., as the President and his family were known to be on board, on their way to attend the examinations at West Point, many fears for their safety, and some suspicions of foul play, were entertained, which, however, were quickly dispelled by the arrival of reliable information from the scene of the disaster.

It appears that just after leaving Annapolis Junc'n, while going thro' a cut, the cow-catcher struck a cow lying on the track, and threw it off; but the cow, striking against the bank of the cut, rolled back on the track, throwing the smoking car and the two cars next to it, off the track, and thereby causing a general smash-up. Strange, as it may seem, no one was killed, and but 15 or 20 at all injured—none fatally it is hoped. The special car containing the President's party was not thrown from the track, nor were the inmates aware of the accident until informed thereof by other passengers.—Information of the accident was telegraphed at once to Washington and Baltimore. Workmen and cars were at once dispatched to the spot, and by 3, A. M., of Thursday morning, the train was again on its way.

On Wednesday the National Division of the Sons of Temperance of N. America, began its 25th annual session, the place of meeting being "Carroll Hall," in this city. Representatives are in attendance from nearly every State, Territory and Province in the United States and the Dominion Canada. On Wednesday afternoon the delegates called on the President, and were kindly received. Dr. Lees, of England, addressed the President briefly, alluding to the earnest goodfeeling borne by the bulk of the English nation toward America, newspapers and ministers to the contrary notwithstanding. The President responded with appropriate words, and after an hour of social concourse the delegates returned to the Hall highly pleased with their reception.

In the evening a "reception" was tendered to the National Division by the Grand Division of the District of Columbia. The spacious auditorium of the "Congregational Church" was crowded with the elite of the city, and the incidents of the evening will long be remembered with pleasure and interest by those present.

The National Division was introduced by Maj. Gen. O. O. Howard, U. S. A., and a Poem of Welcome was read by Dr. Chas. W. Hills, Worthy Patriarch of Howard Division. The most noticeable addresses were those of Hon. R. M. Foust, of Pa., Most Worthy Patriarch; F. M. Bradly, Esq., of Washington, D. C.; Dr. J. J. Bradford, Ky; Hon. J. N. Stearns, of N. Y.; Hon. O. D. Witmore, of N. Brunswick, and Dr. Lees, of England. The latter gentlemen was encored, and spoke of the ties which ought to bind England and America in harmony together. The Band in attendance rendered the National airs: "Hail Columbia," and "God Save the Queen," as well as many others in fine style.

On Thursday evening the National Division attended the Temperance Festival at Carroll Hall, and to-day, at 4 P. M., they will start on an excursion to Mount Vernon. The exercises to be had there will be of an extremely interesting character, and a large body of spectators will doubtless be in attendance. The session of the National Division will long be looked back upon as one to be remembered, and the Grand Division of the Dist. of Columbia, deserve much praise for the generous and hospitable manner in which they have entertained their visitors.

On yesterday evening the "Congregational Church" was again crowded to its utmost capacity, on the occasion of the Fourth Annual Commencement of Columbian Law College. Addresses were delivered by Hon. E. C. Banfield, Solicitor of the Treasury; Hon. Samuel Tyler, L. L. D., Instructor of the Senior Class, and Hon. W. A. Richardson, Assistant Secretary of the Treasury, which were listened to with great interest and attention. The announcement of each graduate's name, and his appearance before the audience was the signal for bursts of appause from his particular friends, of whom each one appeard to have an unlimited number. The whole building looked like a vast conservatory, and as soon as the Diplomas were awarded, the boquets and baskets began to pour toward the stage. Several of the graduates were obliged to procure assistance for the purpose of taking their floral gifts home. Mr. T. A. Lamoert, of Washington, was also the recipient of a magnificent diamond ring. The class numbered seventy-two persons, representing 18 States and Districts.

The Pennsylvanians included in this number, were Messrs. Frank Bell, J. H. Ferguson, Frank Geise, G. W. Guthrie, D. S. Keller, R. H. T. Leipold and C. W. Wilson. The District of Columbia was most largely represented as a matter of course.

The Penn'a. Republican Association met on the 6th inst., and elected five delegates to the State Convention, of whom our friend Dan Welch is one. The delegates were instructed to use all honorable efforts to secure the renomination of Gov. Geary.

Truly Yours,
KAPPA.

NOTHING was ever more indecent than the attacks of some of the newspapers upon the bold men who prosecuted the Pacific Railroad, except the assaults of the same journal upon those who stand ready to build the other great lines. On this subject yesterday's New York Tribune justly says:

We remember how long and how vainly we looked for men to undertake this work. We remember how Science demonstrated its perils, Experience maintained its impracticability, Capital shrank from its gigantic cost and uncertain returns. At last the gentlemen who subsequently became the corporators of the Union Pacific and Central Pacific Railroad stepped forward. When Congress hesitated, they begged, argued, lobbied, till they secured charters. When Wall street sneered and preferred copper mines and corners in Erie, they furnished the capital. When the great money centres of the world, and the great governments of the world, believed that this nation was drifting helplessly into disruption and anarchy, their sublime faith in its future enabled them to prosecute, in the midst of war, an undertaking mightier than any other country, in its peaceful prime, had ever essayed. Through embarrassment and distrust at home as to the national future, through natural obstacles that had hitherto been regarded almost or quite insuperable, through frontier hostilities and the barrenness of the great plains and the desolation of the mountains, they have steadily held their way. To-day witnesses their final triumph achieved years before the limit granted by their charters. We would not take one leaflet from their manfully won laurels. What we have said in the past of their conduct we have said. To day we recall only their services, their bravery in the midst of danger, their confidence in the midst of discouragement, the wonderful energy they displayed, the risks they took, and the great triumph they have won.

THE Pittsburgh Post says of its probable candidate for Governor this fall, that he (ASA PACKER) "runs three railroads and owns one, ALL in the interest of N. York." It is well enough to make a record of such statements from the recognized "organ."

COMPLETION OF THE PACIFIC RAILROAD.

GREAT RUSH TO STERNBERG'S.

Sung to the Tune of "Yankee Doodle.

The Great Pacific Railroad's laid,
From ocean unto ocean,
And now comple connection's made,—
An enterprising notion.

The mighty work at last is done,
So speedily and brisk, oh!
And now in ten days we can run
From here to San Francisco.

No more we take the ancient route,
The stage, a horrid slow thing;
It banged the passengers about,
And wore out all their clothing.

CHORUS, for the end of each verse:

The Great Pacific Railroad's laid,
From ocean unto ocean,
And we buy clothes from A. STERNBERG
A most delightful notion.

Through passengers by the Pacific Railroad will call at the store of A. Sternberg, before starting, and provide themselves with a complete outfit of the elegant and substantial Spring and Summer Clothing, the very best assortment of which will always be found at A. Sternberg's Store.

People who travel by other routes, and all so people who, instead of traveling by any route at all, prefer to stay at home, can find the most superior and reasonable garments, for every occasion, of every variety, and at the lowest prices.

Do not fail to call and examine our stock before purchasing elsewhere, if you do not, we are sure you will be sorry that you did not. Our goods are put down to the lowest figure. We sell whole suits, according to quality.

RANGING FROM $6.50 TO $18.00

"GRANDFATHERS' STOVE."

Our grandfather's stove, what a fancy old thing,
So deep, so wide and so tall;
Now the people would say, who are stylish and gay,
"It was only a hole in the wall."

It matters not what, it was pleasant to see
When night's mantle was flung over all;
Grandfather take down his good book and read
By the light from the hole in the wall.

As the sturdy young men rolled in the great logs,
They would laugh at each wintry squall,
Whilst grandma would sit on her old chair and knit
By the light from the whole in the wall.

The girls then wore home spun, and so did their beaux's,
For pride was a principle small;
And courting was done and hearts have been won
By the light from the hole in the wall.

The neighbors were friendly wherever they'd meet,
With a word of true kindness for all;
And joy was complete to hear voices so sweet
Ring round that old hole in the wall.

In those days we know, folks cared not for show,
Of improvements knew nothing at all;
But 'twas really no joke, when great clouds of smoke
Rushed out from the hole in the wall.

But those days are now o'er, we shall know them no more,
And all those old fashions have flown;
Whilst the solemn and gay are coming each day
To purchase the famous "One Horse."

Coming not only in couples, but in scores, as hundreds of goods and wise men and women have done before, to look upon its magnificent stock, which is acknowledged to be the best cooking stove of the age. Remember the place,

JOB WORK.—Posters, Circulars, Bill Heads, Cards, Paper Books, Job Work of all kinds, neatly executed at the REPUBLICAN OFFICE, at reasonable rates.

SAVE MONEY.—If you want posters, circulars, bill heads, cards, paper-books, first-class job work, plain or fancy, call at the REPUBLICAN office. All work done at Philadelphia prices.

FARM FOR SALE.—Wm. Valentine offers his splendid farm, of 195 acres, with in one and a half miles of Bellefonte, for sale. For full particulars, inquire of Mr. Valentine, or at the office of the REPUBLICAN.

A. HIBLER, M. D.—With pleasure we direct the attention of our readers to the professional card of Dr. Hibler. The Doctor has established for himself the reputation of being a first class Physician. We recommend him to all the afflicted.

Y. M. C. A.—A meeting will be held in the Lecture-room of the M. E. Church, on Friday evening next, at 7½ o'clock, for the purpose of organizing a Young Men's Christian Association. Let the young men of the town, and vicinity, turn out in their strength.

MILLINERY.—We direct the attention of our readers to the advertisement of Mrs. M E. Armor. She is selling off her large and fine assortment of Millinery goods, at cost. The ladies of Bellefonte and vicinity will save money by purchasing from her.

JEWELRY.—On Spring street, Bellefonte, Pa., the readers of the REPUBLICAN will find the splended jewelry store of John H. Hahn. Mr. Hahn is a practicle workman, a clever, accommodating man, and always keeps on hand, for the accommodation of the public, a large and well selected stock of Jewelry, watches, clocks, &c., which he sells at reasonable prices. All are invited to call and examine his stock.

GOOD SENSE.—No business man, says the Huntingdon Globe, has lost by advertising. We have found that those who gave the most attention to advertising, gave a corresponding attention to business; for, in this world of rivalry and competition, he wins who is known the best, and advertising and business, are as inseparable as store room and goods. Take away your store-room, and what becomes of your goods? Take out your advertisement and your business is gone.

THAT HOP.—The ball held by some of our Bellefonte people, male & female, at the Pleasant Gap Hotel, Capt. Wm. Ickhoff, Proprietor, on last Thursday night was, we are credibly informed, quite a success, and all appeared to enjoy their "hop" exceedingly. They had a very nice supper served up for them; and, by-the-way, they had, at intervals, a little of the Captain's "Old Rye," which made them feel quite merry. It was truly a pleasant affair, all parties being well pleased.

GOOD ADVICE.—A man, by paying the simple sum of two dollars for his county paper, will learn enough to save him hundreds of dollars, besides being well informed of the current news of the day, of which let a man be ignorant, and he is pronounced a blockhead. Many a man has suffered fifty dollars worth of trouble and expense by not taking his county paper. Above all things, don't borrow your information from your neighbor's paper, but subscribe for your own "like a man."—Ex.

GRAND LODGE OF GOOD TEMPLARS.—The sixteenth annual session of the Grand Lodge of Good Templars of this State will convene at Scranton, soon.—Arrangements have been made with the various Railroad companies for free transportation to Good Templars attending. The good people of Scranton are preparing to entertain a large delegation, and it is expected that the grand body will continue in session three days; more or less. Eminent speakers are expected to be present on this noble occasion. The good people of Bellefonte and vicinity, as well as the rest of mankind, are respectfully invited to call at the new European Eating House of L. A. Miller & Co., the same being conducted on strictly temperance principles. Meals at all hours. Room large, commodious and well ventilated. Satisfaction guaranteed to all who may favor us with their patronage.

DOES IT PAY TO ADVERTISE.—An exchange thus speaks of the benefits of advertising: "business men of every class, this is a question of no little importance, as total failure or complete success is often the issue. A young man, just emancipated from parental control, is about to embark in business on his own account. He had a good stock of merchandise on hand for sale; but, being only a beginner, he has but little patronage. What should he do? Why, advertise. If nobody knows him, let him make himself known. A newspaper advertisement, judiciously drawn up, and, if necessary, neatly illustrated, and given to a proper medium, will often suffice to make success almost certain. A good advertisement will ring louder than any bell, and is the staff of life in trade, just as bread is the staff of human life. Advertising enables a business man to place his goods before the eyes of thousands who otherwise would never know of their existence, or that of the owner. It is well known among our most successful merchants that liberal advertising not only pays, but is indispensable to the economical and successful working of their establishments. There are innumerable living instances among us where colossal fortunes have been realized by timely and judicious appeals to patronage through the newspaper and periodical press, whilst it would be difficult to find an instance in which it failed to pay.

A LITERARY AND MUSICAL ENTERTAINMENT will be given our citizens by the pupils of the Academy, at the Court House, on Thursday evening, June 24. Doors open at 7½ o'clock; exercises to commence at 7¾ o'clock. 2t.

PLEASANT GAP.—We are informed that the crops in the vicinity of Pleasant Gap look very promising. The wheat stands thick on the ground, and has headed well, with a few exceptions, which was frozen out in winter. The rye is not so good, it being much more injured by the winter than the wheat. Corn looks small and yellow, but a few warm days will work a great change in its appearance.—The barley is growing very well, and presents a fine appearance. The oats crop does not look so promising.

LOOKING WELL.—We had the pleasure of meeting our young friend Capt. W. C. Holahan, of Bedford. He has been engaged, for some time, as a student at law, in the office of Hon. John Cessna, and we learn that he will be admitted to the Bar at the next session of the Bedford Court. Capt. Holahan is known in Centre county as a young man of high moral character, a good scholar, a most promising speaker, an active business man, and, like all the rest of that enterprising family, a sound Republican. We predict for him a happy and brilliant future.

NEW DRUG STORE.—Just opposite the REPUBLICAN office, in the new brick building, erected by Henry Brockerhoff, Jonathan Zellers and Phaon Jarrett are opening a first-class Drug-store. The business will be conducted under the firm name of Zeller & Jarrett. These gentlemen are from Lock Haven, and bring with them the reputation of being honest, upright citizens, and good business men. The Lock Haven Republican speaks of them in the highest terms of praise. We bid them welcome. We desire to see Bellefonte fill up with first-class men.

FISHING EXCURSION.—The fishing excursion which was to be composed of a couple of ladies from Chester, (who say they have pavements in the city, and are surprised at us not having them in the country,) and a favored few, resulted as follows: They were to meet at Mr Jodons, at 12 o'clock, M., on Saturday, the 12th inst. Sure enough, there were seven or eight met, out of twice that number invited. They proceeded to Mr. Brooks', in wagons, thence on foot, across the mountains to behold the picturesque scenery of "Green's Valley," which lies between the mountains extending between the Valleys of Nittany and Penns. This valley is noted for its underbrush and swamps. The few that did go, returned in the evening, wearied from the toils of the day, and with one fish.

LAY REPRESENTATION.—As the question of lay representation is now before the members of the Methodist Church, the following explanation by Bishop Simpson may be of interest:

If lay delegation is adopted, the General Conference will consist of precisely the same number of ministers from the different annual conferences as though there were no lay delegates, and they will be elected in precisely the same way in which they are now. But to their number will be added two lay delegates from the membership in the larger conferences, and one from the smaller.—These delegates will meet with the ministers, and will take part in the various deliberations, but on all occasions of interest, when a distinct vote is called for, they will vote separately from the ministers. No new law can be passed, no alterations of the discipline can be made, except by the vote, first, of the majority of ministers; and, secondly, by the vote of the majority of lay delegates, thus giving expression to the voice of the whole church, both clerical and lay.—The choice of these delegates is to be by an electoral conference, meeting at the time and place of the annual conference previous to the general conference. It is to be composed of laymen, one of whom shall be chosen by each quarterly conference.

"NIG. OR NO NIG?"—This is the question so frequently propounded by the Watchman, who, it would seem, is troubled with "nigger" on the brain; that is, if a man who spells negro with two g's, has any brain. The Editor says he saw, on "the day of the menagerie," four drunken, dirty, saucy "niggers."—This may, or may not, be true; but did the Editor see no white men drunk?—Was the police force doubled to watch the "niggers," or the white Democrats who get their hides full of tangle-foot when they come to town on such occasions, and raise "ned" generally? We do not believe a word of your story! We have a most efficient and impartial police. Several white men were arrested "the day of the "menagerie," but we did not hear of the arrest of a single "nig," Can the Watchman explain this? Your whole story is a contemptible lie, cut from the whole cloth, and you ought to hang your head in shame. Every man in Bellefonte will bear witness to the fact that your story of the "four nigs" is a falsehood, manufactured by you for the lowest and meanest of political purposes. Are our policemen partial? Would they arrest white men for disorderly conduct, and let four of "the dirtiest, drunkenest, sauciest niggers" go "staggering thro' the streets, insulting all who came in their way?" You do the police injustice. In other words, you have lied; wilfully, shamefully and deliberately lied; and you know it. Why do you make yourself meaner and more cowardly than the lowest of the negro race, by attacking, through your columns, the poor and the helpless, and those who have not the opportunity to defend themselves? You talk of the equality of races! You will have to attend several negro balls, in the Democratic club-room, before your character for truth and veracity will be on a par with that of a decent American citizen of African descent.

SAYINGS. Local items of interest, crowded out.

A SINGULAR PROPOSITION.—Dr. Sage has undoubtedly discovered a perfect specific for Catarrh, judging from the universal satisfaction and approbation which we hear expressed by several persons who have used it. R. V. Pierce, M. D., of Buffalo, N. Y., the proprietor, as will be seen by reference to our advertising columns, has so much confidence in the Remedy, as to offer a standing reward of $500 for a case of Catarrh that he cannot cure. The remedy is said to be very mild and pleasant to use. It may be procured by enclosing sixty cents to the proprietor, or of any Druggist in the land.—Toledo Blade.

TO CHURCH GOERS.—Some disciple of Chesterfield says, that the gentleman at church may be known by the following marks:

1. Comes in good season, so as neither to interrupt the pastor, nor the congregation, by a late arrival.

2. Does not stop, either to gaze about him, salute friends, or display his colloquial powers.

3. Opens and shuts the door gently, and walks deliberately and lightly up the aisle or gallery stairs, and gets a seat as quietly, and by making as few people move, as possible.

4. Takes his place in the back part of the seat, or steps out in the aisle when any one wishes to pass in, and never thinks of such a thing as making persons crowd past him while keeping his place on his seat.

5. Is always attentive to strangers, and gives up his seat to such, seeking another for himself.

6. Never thinks of defiling the house of God with tobacco spittle, nor of annoying those who sit near him by chewing the nauseous weed.

7. Never, unless in case of illness, gets up or goes out during the time of service. But if necessity compels him to do so, goes so quietly that his very manner is an apology for the act.

8. Does not engage in conversation before the commencement of service.

9. Does not whisper, nor laugh, nor eat fruit in the house of God, nor lounge in that holy place.

10. Does not rush out of church like a galloping horse the moment the benediction is pronounced, but retires slowly, in a noiseless, quiet manner.

11. Does all he can, by precept and example, to promote modesty and decorum in others.

Covernor Curtin at Home.

Grand Ovation at the Court House.

On Thursday evening, the 10th inst., the people, at six o'clock, assembled in the Court House, to express their personal regards for their distinguished fellow-citizen, and take their farewell of him for the present. The Bellefonte Band was in attendance, and discoursed sweet music. In a short time the esteemed favorite of the people, escorted by H. N. McAllister, Esq., Rev. A. R. Barlow and Mr E. C. Humes, made his appearance in the hall, and was enthusiastically greeted, after which the Hon. James Macmanus rose and addressed him as follows:

GOVERNOR CURTIN:—Your neighbors and fellow-citizens, desiring to testify their appreciation—their esteem and regard for you as a man and a neighbor, united in a letter requesting you to meet them in this place, where they could, collectively, bid you a farewell before leaving them on your important mission to Russia, and it gives me pleasure, Sir, on an occasion like this, to be the medium of calling your attention to the contents of that letter, for there is no truer criterian of character—of what a man's standing in society truly is, than the deliberate, matured judgment formed of him by his neighbors, amongst whom he was born, reared and lived from youth to manhood, and with whom he has associated, morally and socially, in the relations of life.

Here, then, Sir, we have come together, irrespective of political parties, without the pageantry of banquets, but as a community, to give a clear and emphatic expression of our belief in your integrity as a man, your usefulness as a member of our community, and your fidelity to your own convictions of duty in official positions.

True, Sir, as a man of mark, you have been lately maligned by

"Men, that make
Envy and crooked malice, nourishment
To bite the best."

but with the people of your native county, those missiles fall harmless.

Sir, while you are sojourning in foreign lands, you will remember this meeting of your neighbors, because you can appreciate, in this manifestation of the esteem in which you are held by those who have known you longest and best, and when, in dreams, you re visit your native place, and the scenes of your youth, the proceedings of this evening will be pleasant to your memory.

And now, Sir, on the eve of your departure, you find yourself surrounded by your neighbors and fellow citizens, of all ages, sex and condition, who have known you in all vicissitudes of life, assembled here, to bid you a God speed on your journey, and to carry with you their best wishes for the health, happiness and prosperity of yourself and family, hoping that, in the course of human events, you may be permitted to return again to your home, and as citizens of Bellefonte.

Governor Curtin arose to reply. He never appeared to better advantage.—Always eloquent and dignified on the rostrum, it did seem to us that, upon this occasion, he surpassed himself—arising above self, forgetting that he had ever been basely slandered and maligned—he showed only his kind—his sympathetic feelings. We have not been furnished with his farewell address, and, while we might, from memory, report the greater part of it, we do not think it fair to do so.

His speech was replete with love for his country, his State and his county.—He referred to the time when he was admitted to the practice of the Law at the Centre county Bar, he referred to his cotemporaries at that time—the changes that death had wrought among the members of the Bar, in the most feeling manner. With an earnestness and an eloquence peculiarly his own, he asked where is the able, the erudite Potter?—The Burnsides, where are they? Bond Valentine, to a considerable, good law yer is gone; and that great lawyer, Hon. James T. Hale, he, too, has passed from the stage of action to that "bourne whence no traveller returns." They have gone, all gone; but their works do follow them. He referred to his early partner in the law, the Hon. John Blanchard, that man that the people of Centre county delighted to honor. Here the speakers feelings seemed to overcome him, while many of the audience, old and young, were moved to tears. The whole speech while it was a review of the history of Centre county, and his connection with that history, did honor both to the head and heart of the speaker.

After he had concluded, the band played a piece suited to the occasion, when Hon. James Macmanus arose and took him by the hand, and, in the name of the assembled multitude, bade him a kind and an affectionate farewell.

Gov. Curtin was escorted from the Court House to the Depot by the Bellefonte Cornet Band, and a large concourse of his neighbors and friends. After seeing him seated in the cars, which left this place for Philadelphia at 9 o'clock p. m., the people gave three cheers for their esteemed fellow townsmen, Minister U. S. to Russia, and retired, well pleased, to their homes.

AT a meeting of the Bar of Centre county, on the tenth day of June, A. D., 1869, to give expression to their sentiments in relation to the death of William Harvey Laurimore, a member of said Bar, on motion, James Mamcanus was called to the chair, as presiding officer, and Jas. H. Lipton, Esq., Secretary. On motion, H. Y. Stitzer, D. F. Fortney and S. D. Gray were appointed a Committee to draft resolutions, and report the same to said meeting, who, thereupon, withdrew, and after consultation, reported the following preamble and resolutions, which were unanimously adopted, after which the meeting adjourned:

WHEREAS, It has pleased an allwise Providence to remove from our midst, by the hand of death, William Harvey Laurimore, a most esteemed associate and worthy member of this bar, whose being thus cut down in the prime of life and the height of his usefulness, has made sad the hearts of all with whom he was wont to associate; and

WHEREAS, He has suddenly been separated from his family—from the companionship of his many tried friends, and the busy and changing scenes of life, and we who survive, have met here to testify our appreciation of his worth, and our sorrow at the loss that we have sustained in his death. Therefore,

Resolved, That in the death of William Harvey Laurimore, the Bellefonte Bar has been deprived of one of its most worthy members; an Attorney, to whose honesty of purpose and unbenting integrity, and prompt attention to his professional duties, we hereby bear testimony.

Resolved, That in this Providential dispensation, the family of the deceased have lost a kind husband and father, the parent a dutiful son, and the surviving brothers and sisters, a kind, warm-hearted and most affectionate brother.

Resolved, That his uniform courtesy at the bar, his kind, genial and social qualities, and his untiring industry and perseverance in behalf of client and patron, meet our highest esteem.

Resolved, That the proceedings of this meeting be published in all the papers of Centre county, and that C. T. Alexander be appointed to announce the death of William Harvey Laurimore, in due form, in open Court, at the next regular Term, and move the Court that these resolutions be entered on record, and that the officers of this meeting be instructed to furnish a copy of its proceedings to the widow and family of deceased.

BEAUTY AND HEALTH CONNECTED.—Human beauty is admired by all nations and all people. It is a charm that is attractive to the old and the young; the rich and the poor; the good and the bad. It is praised, loved and desired by all. It is valued above the "Philosopher's Stone," or the fabled "fountain of youth" genius and art have continued to beautify the human form, and the brow divine has been painted by the wild Indian, the savage Hottentott, and the civilized Belle. But how can this prize be most easily secured? Not by the paints and powders, dyes and rouge; but by attention to the laws of health and cleanliness. Look at the delicate tints and the exquisite beauty with which nature has embelished the flowers of the field. The skill of the artist can't equal her in the works of beauty, nor can all the genius of the chemist and the labor of the toilet combine a substitute for the natural beauty of a healthy man or woman. To be beautiful in the form of body, and in the complexion and texture of the skin, you must be healthy; and to be healthy, you must live in accordance with nature's laws; take an abundance of exercise, breathe pure air, and be temperate in all your habits. With "painted beauties," "distance lends enchantment;" for, on approaching them, no experienced eye can fail to detect the "false colors" under which they "sail." Besides this, most of the articles used for painting and powdering are injurious to the skin; but let a young lady take free and active exercise, either by labor, walking, or by some active amusement, and you will see the blood mantle to her cheek, her lips fresh as the rose, and a charm of beauty radiate from the countenance which no art can produce. A certain beautiful widow of "doubtful age," was taken "for better or for worse," by a man of wealth, much younger than herself. On retiring at night, she washed the paint from her face, perfumed and laid aside her hair, took her teeth from her mouth, and was detaching various packages of cotton from her "wasteful form," when her husband, observing her dilapidated and frightful condition, and feeling somewhat anxious as to the result of the dissecting process, modestly asked: "What portion of your sacred person do you intend depositing in the bed?" If such individuals would live, in all respects, as the laws of health require, they would need no false hair, artificial teeth, cotton bodies, nor paints and powders to render themselves beautiful, because nature would give a perfect body, a fine complexion, and the teeth and the hair would retain their health and beauty in harmony with all other parts of the person. LEVITICUS.

FATAL ACCIDENT—WHISKEY AGAIN.—On Friday night last, in our neighboring county of Clinton, occurred another of those melancholy accidents which should plant a blush of shame on the cheek of those who favor the liquor trafic. A party of revellers had kept late hours at a hotel in Mill Hall, and drank pretty freely, when one of the party, Robert Dickey, of Bald Eagle tp., that county, left to drive home with his team. His team arriving there without him, search was made, when he was found by the road side, unable to move. His injuries proved fatal Monday night last. 'Tis but another warning, and a terrible one, to those who indulge, and those who uphold.

Flowers.

Flowers teach us the tenderness of God's character. If He had made nothing of this kind, if His works had been for bare utility, and had consisted of coarse and more substantial creations only, the tender side of the divine character would have failed of the revelation it now has in nature. You cannot come across a delicate, trembling flower in the shade of a wood, so small that your heel could crush out its life with one careless step, but that you think how gentle God must be, who made this flower in its exquisite beauty to live there, and daily cares for it in the regular course of His providence.

Following the same idea, the sleep of the flower touches our sympathies. Many of them at night will fold their petals closely together, and like the darling of a kind mother, repose trustfully in the care of their Creator.—And during the long, dark night, they gather the dews which distil in the quiet air, and when day comes, the first beams of the morning fall on millions of glittering drops, and flash back from leaf and bud and petal and grassy blade in such brilliance that the whole waving and nodding field of blooming beauty seems dressed in gems more resplendent than any dream of Oriental magnificence. So it may be with us, if in the night of this somewhat sombre life we draw to ourselves the dews of heavenly grace. We may hope that when eternity fully dawns, the morning light of our Father's love will glance upon these jewels which we have gathered near the cross, and so light them up as to cover us with glory.—The Pacific.

Mr. Vicks thus classifies flowers:

"The flowers usually grown from seeds are herbaceous perennials, biennials, and annuals. Shrubs and trees are obtained at the nurseries. Hardy bulbs, like tulips, crocuses, and hyacinths, should be planted in the autumn. Tender summer bulbs, like the gladiolus, tuberose, and tiger flower, must be set out in the spring. Herbaceous perennials are plants which die down to the ground every autumn, but the roots continue to live, and new branches and flower stems are thrown up for many years. Some continue indefinitely, but others die after three or four years, like the sweet william; but if the roots are divided every year, they will continue to live and increase. These are called imperfect perennials. Biennials flower the second and often the third year, and then die, like the holyhock; but these may be preserved by dividing the roots. Annuals flower the first season, perfect their seeds, and then die. Some varieties that are grown as annuals in a northern climate, are either perennials or biennials in their southern home, where there are no winter frosts. This is true of the verbenna, marvel of Peru, &c. As annuals flower in a few weeks, or months at most, after being planted, and can always be depended upon for a brilliant show they have always been deservedly popular, and each year almost marks a great improvement in our list of fine annuals. With a proper arrangement, a continuous bloom may be kept up from early in July until frost. Annuals are classed as hardy, half hardy, and tender. Hardy annuals are those that, like the larkspur, candytuft, &c., may be sown in the autumn or very early in the spring, in the open ground. The half hardy varieties will not endure frost, and should not be sown in the open ground until danger from frost is over. The tender annuals generally require starting in a green house or hot-bed, to bring them to perfection, and should not be set in the open ground until the weather is quite warm. The cypress vine and the sensitive plant belong to this class; but fortunately very few of our fine annuals. Some of them do tolerably well if sown in the open ground the latter part of May, but very great success is not to be expected in this way."

REPLANTING.—We wish to call the attention of the farmer to the matter of replanting, where, from the depredations of crows, squirrels or worms his corn has been thinned out to an extent which would materially affect the yield of the crop, or where the seed, being bad, has failed to grow.

By planting a small species of corn the season for planting may be extended late into June with a fair prospect of the crop's coming to maturity. We recollect having planted the old "little eight-rowed yellow" corn in western Penn. as late as the 25th of June, and it yielded a nice crop of sound, bright corn. But should the crop be threatened by frosts before it has matured, or should it be far behind the earlier planted portion, it may be harvested before it is ripe and will make nice fall feed, and will richly repay the small trouble and labor expended in replanting. Of course we do not advocate this plan in cases where the first planting is an entire failure, as in that case it might be more profitable to plow up the field and sow it to buckwheat; or it may be sown with corn which yields a profitable crop for fall feeding.—Rural Home.

DON'T keep a calf tied or shut up in some damp dark corner, with hardly room enough to lie down. He needs the sunshine as much as hens, or the plants in the garden.

Successful Farming.

To excel in the cultivation of the soil and reap the richest harvests, skilled labor must be employed. Any intelligent man can manage a farm and make it produce to a limited extent, and he could engage in almost any other occupation with but a smattering knowledge of it, and his labor would be rewarded by more or less income. But he who would excel in an occupation must become a thoro' master of that particular branch of business. That the soil yields returns in proportion to the skill with which it is cultivated, is abundantly substantiated by the fact that ten acres of land, under the skillful culture of an accomplished farmer, are frequently made to produce more than a hundred or more acres produce when badly managed and but very imperfectly cultivated.

Too many who engage in farming, labor under the impression that while most occupations require a preparatory apprenticeship, training or education, that of farming can be successfully pursued without such preparation. The fact is, there are few branches of business in which a thorough training and practical education is of more utility than in that of cultivating the soil. Practice and experience are essential, and yet these will not warrant success without systematically arranged and well matured plans, in the arrangement of which, there is ample room for exercising the best and most cultivated judgment. Nor will "practice make perfect" in farming, unless we render ourselves familiar with the experience of others, as the term of man's existence in this life is too limited to allow him to conduct a sufficient number of experiments to arrive at correct conclusions upon all subjects which arise for his consideration and decision; nor would it be wise to ignore the conclusions arrived at by others, had we the time, as valuable rewards might in the meantime be secured by practicing that which the experience of others has established as judicious. The farmer should therefore render himself familiar with the best and most economical methods of draining, enriching, and otherwise fertilizing the soil as decided by the experience of others. He should carefully study the subject of breeding and managing all kinds of farm stock, should keep himself posted as to the relative merits of different and new varieties of farm stock and seeds, and the comparative profits that may be derived from the raising of different kinds of stock and the cultivation of different varieties of products, and upon other subjects which are being constantly experimented upon and discussed through the medium of the agricultural papers of the day.

While the farmer profits by others' experience, he may for the satisfaction and pleasure which it will afford, and should, for the promotion of agriculture, indulge to some extent in experimental farming, not forgetting to contribute the results of his experiments to the columns of some agricultural paper of large circulation, that others may profit by the results of his experiments.

FRUIT TREES.—The following respecting fruit trees will be found interesting:

1. When fruit trees occupy the ground nothing else should, except very short grass.

2. Fruitfulness and growth of tree cannot be expected the same year.

3. There is no plum that the curculio will not take, though any kind may sometimes escape for one year in one place.

4. Peach borers will not do much damage when stiff clay is heaped up around the tree a foot high.

5. Pear blight still puzzles the greatest men. The best remedy known is to plant two for every one that dies.

6. If you don't know how to prune, don't hire a man from the other side of the sea who knows less than you.

7. Don't cut off a big lower limb unless you are a renter, and don't care what becomes of the tree when your time is out.

8. A tree with limbs coming out near the ground is worth two trees trimmed up five feet, and worth ten trimmed up ten feet, and so on till they are not worth anything.

9. Trim down, not up.

10. Shorten in, not lengthen up.

11. If you had your arm cut off, you would feel it to your heart—a tree will not feel but rot to the heart.

12. When anybody tells you of a gardener that understands all about horticulture and agriculture, and that he can be hired, don't believe a word of it, for there are no such to be hired. Such a man can make more than you can afford to give him, and if he has sense enough to understand the business, he will also have enough to know this.

THE Agricultural Gazette estimates the annual consumption of wheat in the United Kingdom at 20,000,000 of quarters—it may be a million more—and states the average yield per acre, throughout the kingdom, at 27 bushels. An English quarter is eight bushels.

The Cottage Gardener, London, says "earthing up potatoes diminishes the product and retards the ripening of the tubers. Long experiments in England have proved this fact—that hilling up the potato will reduce the crop one-fourth."

SEWING MACHINE.

AMERICAN BUTTON-HOLE OVER-SEAMING AND SEWING MACHINE COMBINED.

MEDAL AWARDED AT THE PARIS EXPOSITION, 1867.

In directing attention to the celebrated COMBINATION BUTTON HOLE AND SEWING MACHINE, we feel fully warranted in claiming for it unquestionable superiority over all others as a Family Machine.—The Simplicity, Ease and Certainty with which it operates, as well as the uniform excellence of its work, certainly place it far in advance of any other similar invention of the age.

It is also the cheapest, intrinsically, as well as the best, since it is really two machines combined in one, (by a simple and beautiful mechanical arrangement never before accomplished by human ingenuity,) making either the Lock Stitch or Button Hole Stitch, as occasion may require. It is, at the same time, simple in construction, comparatively noiseless, easily understood, and, in a word, it combines with those advantages exclusively its own the most desirable qualities of all others, for it not only does every variety of sewing in a SUPERIOR MANNER, but in addition OVERSEAMS splendidly and makes beautiful BUTTON and EYELET HOLES in all fabrics. This is far beyond the capacity of any other machine.

The SPLENDID MECHANISM of this Machine, and the superior skill workmanship and materials employed in its construction, are a guarantee of accuracy, strength and durability, and enable the company and its agents to Warrant Every Machine they sell to give entire satisfaction.

INSTRUCTIONS GIVEN ON THE MACHINE GRATUITOUSLY.

Lessons may be taken if desired with a view to test the Machine, or to become better acquainted with it before deciding to purchase. Samples of work will be furnished upon application at
